

Gail Zeman is new schools business mgr.

By Lisa Boudreau

Gail Zeman, a business administrator for the Rockport public schools, is the new business manager for the Andover public schools. Ms. Zeman, 47, of Rockport was one of three finalists who were chosen from a field of 70 applicants. She will begin sometime in mid-September.

"I'm very excited," said Ms. Zeman. "This is a career opportunity for me. I will be doing many similar things to what I did in Rockport, but on a larger scale," she said.

Ms. Zeman, who assisted with a $17 million school-renovation project in Rockport, said she is looking forward to aiding Andover with its plans to build additions to the high school and at least one elementary school.

Ms. Zeman has not yet signed a contract, but the salary for the position was advertised in the low- to mid-$50,000 range.

The other finalists were Frank Colvario, a former assistant superintendent of the Dover-Sherborn regional schools, and Kevin Oliver, the current business manager of the Melrose public schools.

Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, said he chose Ms. Zeman because she "offered the best blend of personality, skills and understanding of what we need to operate a school system."

"She is a skilled person in interfacing with the community and she offers a positive, professional look in the business office. I think she will

Renovations should be ready in time for Sept. 7 school opening

By Lisa Boudreau

School building repairs being done at West Middle this summer will be nearly completed by the time classes start Tuesday, Sept. 7.

The work that won't be finished, mainly replacement of the school's old windows with new, better-insulated ones, will be done in October when the windows are delivered, said Jim Brightney of the town's municipal maintenance department. The windows can be installed with little or no interruption to classes, he said.

"All the work in the academic areas will be done" by the time school opens, said Mr. Brightney.

He attributes the delays to late deliveries from manufacturers and the shorter summer vacation this year. The last day of the 1992-'93 school year was June 28. Usually summer vacation begins two weeks earlier, he said.

"We started June 30. It was a pretty ambitious time frame and everything is coming along in line with our projections," Mr. Brightney said.

A trolley bus, rented from a tour company in Boston and decorated for a wedding party, sparkled through the streets of Andover Saturday, between St. Joseph's Church in Ballardvale and the reception at the Andover Inn. Phillips Academy settles suit with teacher

By Don Staruk

The lawsuit filed against Phillips Academy last fall by Alexander "Zab" Warren and his wife, Sarah, both faculty members at the school, was settled out of court last week.

"It has been resolved through mediation with the help of a professional mediation firm," Donald McNemar, headmaster at PA, said last Friday. "The complaint has been withdrawn."

"Sarah will continue as a faculty member at Phillips Academy," Mr. McNemar said. "Zab is on leave while he explores other professional opportunities."

Mr. Warren is no longer employed by the school, Mr. McNemar said, but Bob Sullivan, the Warrens' attorney, said Mr. Warren "secured a time period" in which he'll continue to be paid by the school while looking

200-pint goal for Monday Andover residents give, receive blood

By Don Staruk

The Red Cross has set a high goal, 200 pints, for its Friends and Families Summer Blood Drive being held this Monday, Aug. 23, at Old Town Hall from 2 to 8 p.m.

The average community blood drive usually garners 50 to 80 pints, or units, according to Susan Plawsky of the Red Cross. But the Red Cross is setting higher goals right

Here's... 'Stephen from Andover' Tonight Show guest greet Andover boy

By Jennifer Lewis
and Don Staruk

On a recent episode of the Tonight Show, Mike Myers of television's Saturday Night Live said a special hello to "Stephen in Andover, Massachusetts." Since then people have been asking who "Stephen" is.

The "Stephen" he greeted was 14-year old Stephen Milmoie of Landau Lane, the son of Alexandra and Cornelius Milmoie.

Stephen was diagnosed with a malignant brain tumor in 1990 and underwent brain surgery, chemotherapy and radiation therapy.

He was doing well for more than two years, but this May the cancer returned and he is undergoing chemotherapy again.

When Stephen was diagnosed in 1990, his dad, who worked for General Electric, which owns NBC (the network of Saturday Night Live), told his boss how much Stephen like the television program. The boss got Stephen tickets and he went to the show in New York. While he stood in line he saw Mr. Myers and said, "Hi." Mr. Myers came over, spoke with him and ended up giving Stephen a tour of the studio. Then, during the show, every time there was a break, Mr. Myers would wave to Stephen.

"Ever since then we've just been writing back and forth," Stephen said last week.

When the movie Wayne's World came out, Mr. Myers sent a limousine to the Milmoie home and treated the entire family to a critics' screening of the movie at Copley Place in Boston. The movie has a number of scenes that have since become immortalized on MTV.

He sent Stephen a Wayne's World hat before they were available on the market.

In the Wayne's World book, which followed the movie, Mr. Myers mentioned Stephen as the author of a letter in the "Viewer Mail" section. Mr. Myers also sent Stephen a signed copy of the book.

After Stephen's relapse, his mother sent a letter to Mr. Myers in New York but didn't realize he was on the West Coast filming and hadn't received the letter. When Stephen received a letter from Mr. Myers in California, Stephen's mother immediately sent a letter to Los Angeles, telling Mr. Myers of Stephen's relapse. Mr. Myers called right away.

He sent Stephen a poster from his new film, So I Married an Axe Murderer.

Stephen was in the hospital Aug. 1-4. On Monday, Aug. 2, Ms. Milmoie received a call

For the past six weeks, our blueberry muffins have not been up to the standards which we set for our store. There had been a problem with the batter not rising sufficiently and the muffins appeared to be not fully baked.

For this we apologize.

The good news is we have finally solved the mystery and so for those of you who were dissatisfied with the blueberry muffins you purchased at our store in the recent past, (or even if you weren't) we would like to give you a FREE BLUEBERRY MUFFIN ... and we hope you will continue to buy your muffins at our store. We think that now they are, once again, the best you can buy - loaded with blueberries.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Rep. Meehan will meet with Andover residents

Andover residents will have an opportunity to "tell it to their congressman" at a public forum next week sponsored by U.S. Rep. Martin T. Meehan, D-Lowell.

Rep. Meehan has scheduled a town meeting for Tuesday, Aug. 24, at 12:30 p.m. at the Andover Senior Center.

He plans to sponsor these "Tell it to your Congressman" sessions in each of the 30 full communities of the Fifth District this year.

Residents of any Fifth District community are welcome to attend any of Rep. Meehan's town meetings, regardless of the city or town in which they live.

Coon files tax-relief bills

By Lisa Boudreau

Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, filed three bills earlier this month and one amendment to the state constitution. He said he wants to give Massachusetts residents relief from the recently passed federal recovery plan, which includes tax hikes.

Rep. Coon said his plan, if passed by the state legislature when it reconvenes in September, will provide relief at the state level from the effects of the recently passed federal plan. The federal plan increases the federal gasoline tax by 4.3 cents-a-gallon, adds a 10 percent tax surcharge to incomes over $250,000 and increases the top federal income tax rate from 31 to 36 percent for individuals making more than $115,000.

"I'm concerned with the effect the Clinton plan will have on people here. My plan will put $315 million annually back in the pockets of (state) taxpayers to spend or invest," he said.

Rep. Coon's plan would reduce state income tax from 5.95 to 5.5 percent. It would do away with the state capital gains tax over the next six years and it would make permanent the 3 percent investment tax credit. The state tax credit was increased from 1 to 3 percent in March, but it is scheduled to return to 1 percent in 1996.

The victim, identified by police as Jose Lemus, 29, of Chelsea, was taken to Lawrence General Hospital, then flown by helicopter to Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, where he was listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit Wednesday morning. "He had lost quite a bit of blood. He had a major fracture of the femur," Fire Lt. Armand Guilmette said Tuesday night. "There was blood all over the place. I never saw so much blood," said Patrolman Hagerty. Patrolman Hagerty said the driver of the truck may be cited for failing to use caution in backing. The other employee riding on the back of the truck was not injured.

His amendment, if passed, would require a two-thirds vote of both houses of the state legislature to raise taxes.

Another component of the plan calls for a special commission to be established, made up of business people who would investigate ways to increase efficiency in state government and hold public meetings to solicit input on spending reductions.

Rep. Coon believes his proposals will gain bipartisan support between now and September. He has left his proposals with the legislative clerk's office in the hope that other legislators will sign on as co-sponsors.

Office hours

Rep. Coon will hold local office hours Tuesday, Aug. 24, at two different locations. He will be at Northern Essex Community College's Lawrence campus from 6 to 7 p.m. and at Memorial Hall Library from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Rep. Coon will answer questions and discuss issues of concern to his constituents. No formal appointment is necessary. For more information, call his office at (617) 722-2489.

Selectmen unanimously endorse Burtt Road extension plan

By Don Staruk

Selectmen last week voted unanimously to apply for a $1 million state grant to extend Burtt Road from Lowell Junction Road to Ballardvale Street in Wilmington, a move that will open 100 acres of industrial land for development, improve fire safety and decrease traffic on the Andover end of Ballardvale Street.

The state encouraged the town to apply for the Public Works Economic Development program grant, according to Stephen Colyer, town planning director, who said there is a very good chance the application will be approved. The state supports the project partly because of plans by Genetics Institute, a biotechnology business at 1 Burtt Road, to build a one-million-square-foot biotechnology "campus" at that location.

If approved, the grant could actually bring in close to $1.5 million to town for the road extension. Genetics Institute and Gillette Co. have already relocated and paved Burtt Road from Lowell Junction Road, across Genetics' property and to the end of the Gillette property.

The grant would allow completion of a 3,200-foot section of road, and would include installation of traffic controls at Ballardvale Street and a new grade crossing of the MBTA rail line with associated signals and gates.

The road would cross land owned by Gillette, New England Power, R.J. Kelly, Wetterau New England and the MBTA.

The town gets off cheap because the plans for the road have already been drawn up for a previous proposal and all the permits required locally have already been approved.

"Our ace in the hole has been that we have a fully engineered set of plans," Mr.

Colyer told selectmen.

The project would "cost the town basically nothing," Mr. Colyer said.

"It's a plus for the town," Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, told the board prior to their vote.

The project would:

- Create a secondary access to what is referred to by planners as the "triangle," where nearly 1,000 employees work in an area sandwiched by the MBTA rail line and Interstate 93, and serviced by only one access road, Lowell Junction Road;

- Improve traffic on the Andover end of Ballardvale Street by keeping many of those 1,000 workers south of Lowell Junction Road;

- Provide access to 100 acres of industrial-zoned land, creating potential for development, which would mean economic benefits in the form of jobs and tax revenues for both the town and the state.

Other board business

Grille 93 pool tables

The board approved licenses for two pool tables for the Grille 93 on Old River Road, the former Chicland and before that LeBiftheque Steak House.

Chicland had been licensed by the board for children's arcade machines, but the business was not successful in attracting a family crowd, according to Ron Sava, restaurant general manager, and changed to Grille 93 in an effort to attract a business crowd. The restaurant now wants to continue to go after the afternoon business crowd by installing the pool tables, according to Mr. Sava.

"We're trying to get more of a sports bar atmosphere there," Mr. Sava told board members.

Selectman Gerald Silverman was not in favor of the change and said it constituted creation of a "pool parlor."

"I just think it's a different ballgame than what we had before and if we aren't required to do it I would be against putting two pool tables in a restaurant," Mr. Silverman said.

The board approved the pool tables 4-1, with Mr. Silverman voting against the proposal.

Neighbors question gas storage

The board approved two licenses for above ground storage of inflammable products, but not without some questions from residents.

Dave Marinelli, of 5 Noel Road, lives across Route 495 from a 1,000-gallon gasoline tank going in at Andover Country Club. He questioned if anyone ever bothered to figure out what kind of damage would result from such a tank exploding.

Chairman Bill Downs, former town fire chief, assured Mr. Marinelli that the vaulted tanks being used were made of a thick steel and encased in cement, and were approved by the fire department, the state fire marshal and "everybody." Mr. Downs also said that the tank would be replacing an existing in-ground tank, and that the new tank would be "just as safe and better for the environment."

The license was approved 4-0-1, with Charles Wesson abstaining.

Mark Kyle, of 148 Summer St., was one of several residents who had questions about a license for storage of 4,200 gallons of fuel at Merrimack College, including a 2,000-gallon tank of diesel fuel and a 2,000-gallon tank of gasoline.

Mr. Kyle questioned if the in-ground tanks being replaced had been removed. He was assured they had been and that the ground around them had been tested and found free of contaminants.

Richard Garvey, of 37 Fox Hill Road, objected to the truck traffic on Rock Ridge Road as a result of deliveries to the college, including the trucks going to the fuel shed.

A representative from Merrimack College said that some trucks do need to access the college via Rock Ridge Road for deliveries, but that he would try to make sure unnecessary truck traffic is not using the street.

Most trucks should be coming in off Route 114, he said.

"Be a good neighbor," Mr. Silverman said.

That license was also approved 4-0-1, with Mr. Downs abstaining because he is a neighbor to the college.

Our Town success

The Our Town Youth Employment Service Program has been a great success

this summer, with 29 young people employed, according to Selectman Larry Larsen.

Of the 29 youths, 11 are working for the school department and 18 are working for the town. The youths are working in offices and outside doing jobs such as painting, cleaning and landscape work. The youths have painted 1,100 of the town's roughly 1,500 fire hydrants to date.

"I think for an expenditure of about $40,000 we're getting a lot of work done that simply would not get done," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Mr. Stapczynski said he hopes the program will be implemented again next summer.

now because of an urgent need for blood, she said.

One of Andover's frequent donors is Selectman Gerald Silverman who has given blood 82 times, according to Ms. Plawsky. Mr. Silverman will be there again Monday, encouraging other Andover residents to donate blood.

Andover also has its share of blood recipients, including Stephen Milmo, a Landau Lane resident battling brain cancer.

"I had my first blood transfusion ever three weeks ago," Stephen said during a visit to the Townsmen last week.

He needed 24 units of platelets, the clotting agents in blood, and a unit of "packed cells."

Jill Hartel, 4, whose mom, Lisa Alecci Hartel, rode in the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge two weeks ago to raise funds to fight cancer and was featured in a story about the ride in last week's Townsmen, also suffers leukemia and has also needed blood.

Jill was diagnosed with leukemia last September, according to Steve Hartel, her dad.

"In September and October she got a handful of red cell transfusions and two or three platelet transfusions," Mr. Hartel said.

Jill hasn't needed blood since that first month because her body is able to produce enough on its own. But she has another year of chemotherapy in front of her and any time the chemotherapy lowers her cell count she may need more blood, Mr. Hartel said.

"Anyone undergoing chemotherapy for leukemia needs blood," said Alex Milmo, Stephen's mother.

Mr. Hartel said he was at the hospital with Jill last week and met some of the other families he has gotten to know during the past year dealing with Jill's disease. One little girl from Ecuador needs transfusions every three weeks, Mr. Hartel said.

Monday's drive

Perfecto's Cafe in Andover will provide bagels and muffins for the blood donors Monday. Old Town Hall will be air-conditioned.

In addition to bagels, juice and soft drinks, donors will have their blood pressure, temperature, pulse and hemoglobin checked.

"So it's kind of like a mini-physical," Ms. Plawsky said.

Supporters of the blood drive include the town of Andover, Perfecto's Cafe, churches in Andover, North Andover and Lawrence, Andover Savings Bank, CVS/Pharmacy and small businesses in Andover, Andover High School students and the Merrimack Valley Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Donors must be in good health, at least 18 years old (17 with a signed American Red Cross parental or guardian consent form), weigh at least 105 pounds and have no history of exposure to hepatitis or the AIDS virus. There is no upper age limit for donors and most medications are acceptable.

For more information or to schedule a donation appointment, call the American Red Cross at 1-800-922-4376. Volunteers are needed to help at the drive; those interested should call the same phone number.

from an assistant of Mr. Myers who said Mr. Myers had just mentioned Stephen on the Tonight Show.

His mother then arranged for Stephen to be watching that night.

Mr. Myers apparently said "Hi to Stephen in Andover, Massachusetts," and host Jay Leno said that Andover was his hometown, too, and he chimed in with his own hello to Stephen.

"Mike has been a wonderful, wonderful support person to Stephen," Ms. Milmo said. "We're hoping we can go down this fall and see Saturday Night Live again."

Stephen is now trying to build up his strength and knock down his cancer-cell count so he can get an autologous bone marrow "rescue."

In such a rescue, the marrow is harvested from his bones, his body is subjected to strong doses of chemotherapy, then his marrow is replaced.

The operation will be done at Duke University in Durham, N.C., sometime between October and next April, depending on how quickly Stephen's cancer cells can be reduced.

The deadline for news & info for the next issue is Monday, Aug. 23, at 5 p.m. The Townsmen keeps a community calendar. Planning an event? Send in your news.

Marissa Michaels Hair Salon owner Dennis Forman blow dries Jerilyn Clarke's hair at his new shop on Florence Street.

New hair salon opens in town

By Jennifer Lewis

The philosophy of Marissa Michaels Hair Salon owner, Dennis Forman, is "service, quality work and lower numbers."

The salon, which recently opened at 38 Florence St., has six employees and, according to Mr. Forman, "no more than four stylists, one nail technician and one desk coordinator."

The Andover location is the third salon opened by Mr. Forman in Massachusetts. He opened a salon in Weymouth 10 years ago and a second store in Duxbury two-and-a-half years ago.

Mr. Forman said he is phasing out his Duxbury salon and concentrating on the Andover location.

He said the hair look for the '90s is "healthy looking with built-in shine," and not the dry, permed look of the '80s.

A haircut at Marissa Michaels Hair Salon costs between $20 and $30.

The client base for the Andover location includes customers from Cape Cod, the South Shore, Boston, Worcester and North Conway, N.H., according to Mr. Forman.

"Every client is special," Mr. Forman said. "We provide a professional atmosphere where the client can appreciate the work, music and coffee. In the Duxbury salon, people would come for coffee and to hang out."

Mr. Forman calls himself a "Paul Mitchell educator." He has done stage work and shows in New York and specializes in hair color.

"Ninety-five percent of women in New York color their hair," he said.

Mr. Forman has studied with stylists such as Vidal Sassoon and John and Suzanne Chadwick, and has attended weekend seminars with stylists from Japan, Scotland, Italy and England.

"I studied with the Russians two years ago for the first time," Mr. Forman said. "You wouldn't think of them as fashion leaders but they are wonderful hair-cutters."

Mr. Forman has also participated in charity functions, including fashion and hair shows for the Make-A-Wish Foundation and the Special Olympics.

Mr. Forman, who is originally from the North Shore, chose to open a location in Andover to be closer to his family in Bradford.

He shares his location, a 100-year-old refurbished building, with four other businesses. The atmosphere is not like a typical salon, but has hardwood floors, windows, and a "classy touch." Mr. Forman designed the salon himself. He said designing it was "the most fun."

"We created a nice atmosphere to get you (the customer) here," Mr. Forman said.

John Hancock takes W. Andover office space

Philip G. Giunta, vice president of Leggat McCall/Grubb & Ellis, recently negotiated 7,610 square feet at Shattuck Office Center in Andover for John Hancock Insurance.

The three-story building is located at the intersection of River Road and Interstate 93.

"We are pleased with the leasing activity at the building. Most companies find it an attractive choice due to its surrounding amenities, which include the Andover Marriott and Courtyard hotels as well as the several restaurants and retail stores in downtown Andover, which is only five minutes away," Mr. Giunta said.

Leggat McCall/Grubb & Ellis is the exclusive leasing agent for the 61,865-square-foot property.

Decorator plans September opening

Gallery reopens under new owner

By Jennifer Lewis

Design...Design, an interior design business, will open next month in Olde Andover Village.

The store will take the space formerly occupied by William's Fine Jewelry, which recently moved and changed its mode of business. It will open by late September and will be unique compared to any other interior decorator in Andover, according to owner Karen Silvestri.

"It will be an interior design and gift shop," Ms. Silvestri said.

The store will offer furniture and "one-of-a-kind gifts."

Ms. Silvestri specializes in both residential and commercial decoration and has been an interior decorator for 10 years. The Andover location will be an extension of her existing business in Salem, N.H. Most of her clientele is from the Andover/North Andover area.

"I feel very at home in Andover," she said. "I loved the space; it all felt right."

By Jennifer Lewis

Andover Fine Art, formerly Patricia's Gallery, at 90 Main St., will reopen Aug. 30.

Former owners Patricia Foster and David Guselli are rearranging their business agreement, according to the building landlord, John Davidson.

"They are rearranging within themselves," he said. "They are redecorating and bringing in some new art."

Ms. Foster said last week she had "no comment" on the current changes at the gallery, but that it would be under new ownership. Ms. Foster has recently opened a new gallery in Swampscott.

Mr. Guselli, the new owner, said the gallery is closed for restocking. He is currently bringing in new artwork and said the scope of the gallery will focus less on limited edition artwork and more on lower priced merchandise, reasonably priced

Understanding
Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

CUTTING TO THE CHASE

In the 1920's, a medical doctor named Henry Winsor of Haverford, Pennsylvania, performed 75 human autopsies in an effort to confirm or deny chiropractic's basic premise. A skeptic, Dr. Winsor wanted to know if there really was a relationship between a diseased internal organ and a constriction in the nerve that supplied it. Chiropractic maintains that a misalignment of the spine may constrict any nerve passing through the bony passage on its way to the internal organ it serves. What Dr. Winsor found was that, of the 221 diseased internal organs he observed, 212 were served by nerves that were restricted by abnormalities in the spine. As a result, the doctor could see a correlation between spinal misalignment and diseases ranging from lung and liver disease to gallstones and stomach disorders.

Chiropractic offers a non-invasive treatment for all ages, from infants to seniors. If you have health problems, we suggest you give chiropractic a try. Call us today, at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our personal concern is the health of you and your family. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Dr. Winsor's research was reported in the November, 1921, issue of Medical Times.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

DENTAL IMPLANTS

Permanent tooth replacements known as dental implants should be thought of as part of dentistry's mainstream. Ever since 1977, when it was demonstrated that implants could be anchored and fused to the jawbone, implants have been on the rise. A survey conducted by researchers at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine shows that the number of implants placed annually in the U.S. increased from about 116,150 to 435,700 between 1986 and 1990 (the last years for which statistics are available). More importantly, the implant success rate, as monitored by the U.S. F.D.A. is also impressive. According to one large study of more than 4,500 implants, the 5- to 15-year survival rates were 86 to 99 percent for lower jaw implants, and 78 to 92 percent for upper jaw implants.

Heed the early signs of gum disease and put a stop to its progress. Preventative care is still the most effective way of combating tooth problems of all kinds, including those that could result in the need for dental implants. For gentle dental care for the whole family, call us at 475-2431. Office hours here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt. 133 (with easy access off Rt. 93) are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6 and by appointment. Our complete services include implants, dentures, crowns & bridges, and sealants.

P.S. Generally, dental implants take more readily to the lower jaw where the bone is more dense and plentiful, than to the upper jaw.

original works and some other merchandise including pins and watches.

According to Mr. Guselli, the gallery will offer, "hand-picked, fine work in a different market than we were previously involved in."

He said the new merchandise will be "a little bit lower-end." While Mr. Guselli said the limited-edition artwork of the old gallery was "doing quite well," he saw a need to "work in an overall market."

"People were a bit intimidated by the prices [of the limited edition artwork]," he said. "Everyone should be able to purchase art."

Mr. Guselli said the gallery will also offer framed posters. Although the gallery has been closed to the general public, Mr. Guselli has continued to work with clients.

"We have to find what Andover and the surrounding market is looking for," he said.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald &
Pamela Lebowitz
MAKING THE
MOST OF YOUR
INSPECTION

Today many home buyers are investing in a professional structural inspection before finalizing the sale. By choosing your inspector carefully and preparing for your structural, you can learn important facts about your new home and perhaps save thousands of dollars in the process.

Once you have a ratified sales agreement, the Realtor will help set up an appointment for you to see the home with your inspector. Even though you may get a written report of the inspection, bring a notebook with you. If you have any questions, write them down ahead of time. Was there anything you noticed when you went through the house on your own? Were you concerned about any cracks in the walls, spots on the ceiling, or noises in the air conditioning system? When you are going through your new home with the inspector, remember that it's probably not quite perfect. You should come away, however, with a good understanding of what you are buying and how much maintenance will cost.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

AHS weight room is open for residents

Members of the coaching staff at Andover High School have agreed to volunteer to supervise the weight room at the school during some evening hours for the rest of the summer.

The weight room will be open to Andover High athletes, as well as Andover residents, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, from 5-8; and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6-9, reports Jim Hurley, athletic director of the public schools.

Mr. Hurley said the coaches decided to volunteer the time to supervise the room because people wanted to use it. He said that prior to budget cuts in the last few years, the weight room was open for athletes' use.

When school opens, the room will only be available to AHS student athletes, he said.

Q: I was told that I have nerve deafness. Will hearing aids help me?

A: The term "nerve deafness" usually refers to sensorineural hearing loss, caused by damage to the inner ear or the cochlea. This type of loss can be caused by noise damage, aging, trauma, some drugs, or be inherited.

Nerve deafness is rarely able to be treated medically. In fact, hearing aids are often the only form of help. The majority of hearing aids today are worn by people with sensorineural hearing loss. Modern hearing aids can be tailored for the degree and pattern of the loss. For example, someone with hearing loss only at higher frequencies would benefit from hearing aids that only amplify high frequencies and filter out all other pitches.

Please call if you would like any more information on this or any other hearing related issue. Audio Hearing Center (508) 475-9595. We are conveniently located at 79 North Main Street, Andover - across from the fire station.

West Elementary third-graders are 'tops in telecommunication'

Joyce Cullen's third-grade class at West Elementary School was "tops in telecommunication" this year. They were computer pen pals with Paul Katler's class at City Magnet School in Lowell. The children learned to send and receive messages via the computer and a conference called "Friends" at UMass Lowell, through the supervision of Dr.

John LeBaron and the cooperation of Dr. Judith Smith.

The project began with the class producing a getting-to-know-you video, which was sent to the Lowell students. Messages concerning their predictions and conclusions of joint science experiments were then exchanged. As part of a unit on the history of Andover, the class also exchanged information about their communities. The project ended with the class publishing a book written and illustrated by Mrs. Cullen's class.

Students at Bancroft spent four months corresponding with Methuen Comprehensive Grammar School students as part of a pen pal project. Pictured here is the meeting of the students from the two schools.

Bancroft students meet pen pals

Three classes at Bancroft School corresponded with three classes at the Methuen Comprehensive Grammar School for four months as part of a pen pals project organized by the Collaborative Enrichment Program of the Greater Lawrence Educational Collaborative. The students finally met June 22.

Approximately 75 students from each school participated and all received certificates. The Bancroft teachers are Debbie Nichols and Nancy McMahon, kindergarten, and Diane Connolly, first grade. The CGS teachers are Kathy Martin (class corresponded with Ms. Nichols' class), Jeane Molloy (corresponded with Ms. McMahon's class) and Nancy Perrault, (corresponded with Ms. Connolly's class).

The students exchanged four letters and saw videos of each other before meeting. The kindergarten students visited CGS. The first grade students will visit both schools.

Jim McConaughy, collaborative enrichment program coordinator, set up the project between the schools and acted as letter carrier and videotaper. More than 900 students from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence and Methuen, grades K-5, have participated in a Collaborative Enrichment Program Pen Pals project this year.

The Collaborative Enrichment Program provides inter-community educational programming designed to increase friendship, communication and understanding. Other projects include the Greater Lawrence Academic Bowl for grades 7 and 8 and the Collaborative Student Leadership Program for grades 9-12.

Horse-to-horse body jousting by the Jousting Knights and Steeds is just one of many Renaissance events featured every weekend at King Richard's Faire. Renaissance re-lived at King Richard's Faire

King Richard, Queen Katherine and their Royal Court will descend on the Hatch Shell on Wednesday, Sept. 1, from 5 to 7 p.m. to entertain the people of Boston in true Renaissance fashion.

This colorful display of Renaissance pageantry is unique only to the 16th century. The festivities will be offered free and sponsored by WZLX radio, WCVB TV-5 and the MDC.

King Richard has selected his favorites from the royal realm to perform a sampling of Renaissance entertainment. Entertainment will include a full dress joust by The Jousting Knights and Steeds; Baron Jules Von Uhl, a 16th cousin to the Queen of England, and his 12 African lions, who perform a comedy lion tamers act; jugglers; musicians; puppets; stilt-walkers; fire-eaters; magicians and Renaissance-craft demonstrations.

Also featured from the Royal Zoo will be Mongolian miniature horses, black panthers, and wolves.

The 15th annual King Richard's Faire will open in South Carver on Labor Day weekend, Sept. 4, 5, 6, and run for eight consecutive weekends through Oct. 24.

King Richard's Faire is a vivid recreation of a 16th century English marketplace at festival time. Actors, dancers, puppeteers, minstrels, mimes, jugglers, magicians, and musicians perform for the favor of his Royal Highness.

The Royal Chefs prepare authentic edibles and Royal Craftsmen display unique handmade crafts. Renaissance games, exotic animals, authentic jousts and much more round out a full day of entertainment.

For more information on King Richard's Faire, call 866-5391.

SBC to begin its review of bids for AHS additions

By Lisa Boudreau

The School Building Committee will begin reviewing architects' bids next week to determine which firm will draw the designs to build additions onto Andover High School. The committee will then review the proposals and pick an architect in a few weeks to draft preliminary designs and make initial cost estimates, Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said earlier this week.

Mr. Stapczynski is the official responsible for nominating SBC members, who then must be approved by the Board of Selectmen. He hopes to nominate at least two new members for selectmen to approve at their next meeting, Monday, Aug. 23, at 7:30 p.m. in town offices on Bartlet Street.

In May three SBC members resigned, including the chairman and treasurer. The remaining SBC members are the new chairman, Doug Hamilton, of Harding Street; Jim Marsh, of Nutmeg Lane; Margie Dennis of Orchard Crossing; and Nancy Stohlberg of Cheever Circle.

Next Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 7:30 p.m. the SBC will meet with School Committee members to discuss how designs for additions to the high school and at least one elementary school will best meet educational needs.

Field house

Part of the SBC's charge will be to solicit community input and gauge what kind of support there is for a field house to be included as part of the high school plan. A field house could increase the cost of the high school addition program by hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Elementary schools

An architect was hired last year to develop plans for additions at the elementary school level. At that time the SBC determined the best approach to add space to the town's elementary program was to build a new 450-student school on town-owned land off Burnham Road, near Penguin Park playground.

parents of high school students, who protested that crowding at the high school necessitated building an addition onto the AHS first, the SBC halted the elementary school project until the School Committee could present education specifications for both projects.

The elementary-school program architect, Michael Rosenfeld, will be working with the SBC during the fall to adjust his designs to meet new education specifications established by the School Committee earlier this summer. School Committee members reduced the number of seats they want to add from 400 to approximately 140. Members have said earlier this year that new projections indicate that only 140 seats will be needed.

The School Committee supports adding about nine classrooms onto South Elementary School and adding more storage space to Sanborn Elementary School.

The final decision will be made by the SBC, which is the legal board empowered by the state to decide how tax money will be spent to fund school building and renovation projects.

Jay Leno helps Ballardvale playground

By Jennifer Lewis

At the start of the summer, children in Ballardvale were playing on broken and dangerous playground equipment.

"There was nothing down there except a few broken swings," said Lucille Tallini, a member of the Ballardvale Playground Improvement Committee.

Thanks to the town of Andover, the members of the committee and all of the people who donated money to the committee, children are now sliding down, spinning around and climbing around on new equipment.

One of the individuals who donated to the committee was Tonight Show host Jay Leno. Mr. Leno initially made a personal donation and apologized that it couldn't be more, explaining that he gets similar requests all the time. But when his mother, Catherine, died in June, Mr. Leno asked for donations to be sent to the Ballardvale Playground Improvement Committee. A total of $2,200 was received from the likes of George Wendt [Norm from Cheers], Doc Severinsen, NBC Studios and Mr. Leno's personal friends, according to published reports.

"They donated money because Jay asked them to donate to the committee," Ms. Tallini said.

According to Ms. Tallini, the names of all the donors will be engraved on a wood board, which will be put on the playground.

Throughout the summer, the playground has been improved with equipment such as swings, slides, tether-ball games, a jungle gym, merry-go-round, new basketball hoops and a little slide for younger children.

The town has also donated picnic tables and "playground" signs that encourage traffic to slow down.

Within those eight months, the committee has raised more than $10,000 through private donations and fund-raising events, including a yard sale and cookbook sales.

"The town's been very good to us," Ms. Tallini said. "I hope we can do more."

Clarification

Due to a delay in processing, Andover police mistakenly arrested Madeline Partridge, 52, of 5 Center St. on Tuesday, July 27, and charged her on a Lawrence warrant for larceny by check. Ms. Partridge had gone to court on Monday, Aug. 26, and made arrangements for payment of the amount she owed for the check, but the recall on the warrant was not received by Andover police until Wednesday, Aug. 28, the day after the arrest, according to Sgt. John Bernhardt.

Renovations are nearly complete at WMS

Principal Sam Campbell recently took a visitor on a tour of the building and pointed out several of the areas under construction.

"A tremendous effort is underway to get this work done by the time school starts," he said.

Dr. Campbell said he was confident the majority of the work will be done on time.

Renovation and repair costs

The school department will spend approximately $2.4 million on school repairs this summer and fall. Half of that will be spent on West Middle School.

WMS classroom renovations are estimated to cost

$130,000; roof and sky light repairs, $150,000; window replacements, $370,000; and heating and ventilation improvements, $555,000, according to school department figures.

Heating and ventilation

Each classroom in the school now has a new heating unit. About 46 units were installed during the past few weeks, said Mr. Brightney.

The air-handling system in the auditorium and gymnasium is being replaced. Newer, quieter, and more efficient air ducts and blowers will be added as part of the project. The new system will carry more fresh air into the rooms than the old units did, said Mr. Brightney.

A new, roof-top heating and air-handling system will be installed in the cafeteria. A hole has been cut in the cafeteria ceiling and a frame for the rooftop system was built. The hole will be sealed up until the roof-top unit is delivered sometime in early September, said Mr. Brightney.

When the unit is delivered it will be installed by crews working on the roof, which will not interrupt use of the cafeteria, he said. It should be installed and operational by the second week of September, Mr. Brightney said.

Asbestos removal

The asbestos insulation around the pipes in the school's basement and crawl spaces has been removed and old heating pipes will be taken down and replaced. All the asbestos removal was done by licensed professionals and was closely monitored, said Mr. Brightney.

"We hired an independent consultant to check air samples before, during and after the work," to make sure asbestos particles did not contaminate the area. "All state and federal guidelines were followed...and all air samples checked out with state requirements," he said.

Wood shop

The former wood shop area is being completely renovated. It will be turned into a group meeting room.

The old wood shop floor, which parents and staff have complained about, will be removed. The school department received several complaints last year that odors from the creosote-treated pine floor caused headaches and nausea.

The new wood shop area will be located a few doors down from its former location. A handicap-accessible elevator will be installed in the new group meeting room and depending on how fast the wood shop can be moved the group meeting room may or may not be done by September, said Mr. Brightney. He believes almost all the work in those two rooms can be done by the time school starts, but the windows won't be installed until October.

"Our goal is to try and do all the window replacements [throughout the school] on off-school hours," Mr. Brightney said.

Front entrance

The windows in the main foyer of the school and the adjacent ceiling-to-floor glass hallways will be replaced with new insulated windows. This work cannot be done until the windows are delivered, said Mr. Brightney.

The grassy area in front of the main entrance is currently being excavated and made level. Some landscaping work will be done and the rest of the area will be paved and two granite benches will be erected. The School Committee chose the more expensive granite benches over less costly wooden ones, because members believe the durable stone benches would be more cost-effective in the long run.

"When students, teachers and parents come here in September, they are going to see the end result of a lot of man-hours of labor," said Mr. Brightney.

"They'll have no idea the extensive work that's going on. The crews have really done a great job," he added.

Other school renovations going on in town

By Lisa Boudreau

West Middle is not the only building getting a facelift this summer. Work crews will be laboring throughout August on six other schools to prepare them in time for the first day of school, Tuesday, Sept. 7.

The overall cost of the projects is estimated to be $2.4 million. About $250,000 will be spent to install new fire alarms and panic bars on exit doors at all the schools. About $8,000 has been set aside to update security systems in most of the schools.

At Shawsheen School 10 more parking spaces will be added and about one dozen windows will be replaced, said Jim Brightney of the town's municipal maintenance department. Some areas will have new carpeting and floor tiles installed, he said.

Parking spaces will also be added at South Elementary School and the area where school buses to turn around will be enlarged, Mr. Brightney said.

Bancroft Elementary School's leaky

skylights are being worked on and some roof repairs are being made. The work is scheduled to be completed before school opens, Mr. Brightney said. The roof repairs will cost about $350,000 according to school department figures.

At Sanborn Elementary School new lighting is being installed throughout the building. Two handicap-accessible bathrooms for adults were installed earlier this summer and some ceiling and floor tiles were replaced.

Mr. Brightney said improvements are being made to West Elementary School's air ventilation and duct work system and major work is being done to the school's roof and ground drainage systems.

Nearly half a million dollars has been earmarked to remedy the drainage problems at West Elementary School. A new underground drainage system around the perimeter of the building will be completed by September.

The drainage system will not only carry ground water away to a catch basin, but it will also carry away water from the school's roof, said Mr. Brightney. Concrete was added to areas of the school's basement floor that were not reinforced with concrete. This will reduce water seepage from outside, he said.

One large meeting room at Doherty Middle School has been divided to make two classrooms and additional lighting was installed in the those rooms.

Work that is not yet completed at those six schools is scheduled to be done by the time school opens in September, said Mr. Brightney.

Oil tanks

Heating-oil storage tanks at all the schools will be tested to make sure they are structurally sound, said Mr. Brightney. As of this week, tanks at West Elementary School, the two middle schools as well as the hot-water tank at the high school have been tested and they passed with "flying colors," said Mr. Brightney.

Oil tanks at the other schools will be tested later this month, he said.

Gail Zeman is named new schools business manager

work well with the school central office as well as the town side and municipal maintenance department," he said.

Ms. Zeman will replace acting business manager David Reilly, who assumed the business manager's responsibilities when Frank Paul retired in February. Mr. Reilly resigned from his position as school accountant and acting business manager earlier this month when he was chosen to be the town's new treasurer/collector. Mr. Reilly will officially leave the school department in September.

Ms. Zeman has managed the business administration of the Rockport schools for the past 12 years. Rockport has two school buildings, a kindergarten-through-grade-12 population of approximately 950 and a $4 million budget. Andover schools educate approximately 5,000 students and will operate on a $22.7 million budget for fiscal year 1994.

Her responsibilities in Rockport included supervising personnel, food service programs, transportation, writing grants and developing school budgets. She also managed Rockport's Community Schools program, which provides adult education and student enrichment courses and rents out school facilities.

Besides school administration, Ms. Zeman has worked in the accounting and public relations fields for private industries. She has a bachelor's degree in journalism from Northwestern University and she is currently enrolled in a master's program at Boston College.

Ms. Zeman believes her involvement with Rockport's school renovation projects and her hands-on experience in running all aspects of a school system are what set her apart for the other candidates. Dr. McQuillan agrees. He said her expertise in all areas of school building and renovation projects was a key factor in decision to hire Ms. Zeman.

She said she's "done everything from the regular duties associated with the business manager's role to supervising food services, transportation and some legal and insurance matters," Ms. Zeman told School Committee members last week during an informal interview with the three finalists.

"My experience in these areas, plus having the opportunity to do so many things that in a larger system would be divided up, gives me the confidence" to meet the challenges a position in Andover would present, she said.

Working in Andover "is an opportunity that excites me a great deal, because of the town's reputation for valuing education. Clearly things are happening - the school building projects and the developmental elementary programs," Ms. Zeman added.

Personal background

Ms. Zeman grew up in Seattle, Wash. and moved to Rockport 19 years ago. She lives there with her husband, Phillip Zeman. The couple has two adult sons.

EDITORIALS

Invaluable interns

At the Townsmen, our interns are invaluable.

They type. They check facts. They write and research stories. Some of them take photos. Some of them are learning to lay out pages. This summer, one is working on graphics, making up ads, learning that side of a newspaper.

They come to the newspaper with differing levels of competency. Some of them are studying journalism in college and want to gain more experience. Some of them haven't studied journalism, but have a talent for writing.

We like interns for several reasons. For one, they help fill out a small staff. Sometimes having an intern means we can get a story that ordinarily we wouldn't be able to write because our priorities would be first to cover breaking news stories.

We also like to have interns working with us because they make us "sit at the edge of our chairs." That means they are bright, motivated and interested in what makes a newspaper tick. In a way, reporter interns are competing to get a byline on the front page, so all of us are more alive when they are here.

In addition, they become another contact for the paper, someone who brings a fresh point of view, someone who knows people, places and things about Andover that a staff member might not know.

In short, we are high on the idea of offices sharing what they know with interns. It is a wonderful symbiotic relationship. If your office has had an intern this summer, write us a brief note about it; perhaps we will encourage other offices to give others a chance to taste a new business.

And in the meantime, if you would like to be an intern at the Townsmen this fall, send your resume to Perry Colmore, 33 Chestnut St., Andover Mass. 01810.

Please write

The Townsmen welcomes letters. They should be no longer than two pages, typed and double-spaced. They are due at the Townsmen by Monday at 5 p.m.

PALS: A whole lot of synergy goin' on

By Alix Driscoll

PALS is synergistic.

This summer's PALS tutoring program at Phillips Academy was more than the sum of its individual parts, working together - the students, faculty of teachers and teen assistants, hands-on curriculum, computers, sports and enrichment activities. The total: bold intellectual curiosity focused by strong career goals.

activities. The total: bold intellectual curiosity focused by strong career goals.

What is PALS?

PALS stands for Phillips Academy and Leonard School partnership. The students are 50 six-, seventh- and eighth-grade youngsters with strong leadership and academic potential from the Leonard School in Lawrence. They spend four weeks each summer, for three years, on Andover Hill. They hone their skills six hours each day.

PALS began five Julys ago at the Cochran Chapel at Phillips Academy. Father Richard Gross, Roman Catholic chaplain and director of the Phillips Community Service Program, organized PALS as a way to reach out to the youngsters of the neighboring community. He gathered a summer staff of teaching professionals and high school assistants. In the fall Phillips students continued the tutoring. Now students from Phillips, Andover High School and Central Catholic High School in Lawrence mentor the youngsters two afternoons each week.

Career investigation

This summer I decided these eighth-graders would be more successful in high school if they had career goals as anchors. Enter the "reporters' project." After surveying which occupations interested the students, I invited local professionals to come by for a chat or we drove to work sites. The youngsters prepared probing questions about education, necessary internships and future plans. Among the experts they interviewed were Ellen Murphy, public relations director of KGR Inc.; five health-care professionals at Lawrence General Hospital; two young AT&T engineers; and Ellen Walker, budget coordinator at Phillips Academy.

They also interviewed several of the summer PALS faculty and learned about the college application process from Kevin Sharkey, a senior at Andover High School. Andy Frishman of Shawsheen Road, who will investigate marine biology at Wesleyan University, and Frank Morris of Florence Avenue, who will enter Brown University this month with a pre-law course of study, contributed goal-setting guidelines.

Career journal

Lots of writing, organization of sentence-structure and attention to punctuation was accomplished under the guise of the reporters' project.

Club Hurrah's program, story just a beginning

Editor, Townsmen:

As a parent of one of the campers from Club Hurrah ["Hurrah! for summer special needs club," page 1, Aug. 12], I would like to make a few comments. The summer program was educational, innovative and a lot of fun. The staff was extraordinary and it was wonderful seeing the teens involved in so many community activities. This program was just a beginning and a good one. However, I look forward to the day when there are not separate programs for individuals who appear "different"; instead, all children, disabled or not, will participate in our schools and our community together. As an example, I would like to see my teen-age daughter taking part in the same kind of activities that other teens her age participate in, whether it is a summer job, going shopping with friends, going out to lunch or just hanging out. While the media presentation was very positive, my hope is that we will reach a day when articles such as this will not be newsworthy.

Town and school personnel made all the difference

Editor, Townsmen:

Recently nearly 500 Andover and area children attended courses of the Kaleidoscope enrichment program, held at West Elementary School. While this was our non-profit organization's 13th summer, something very special happened this year. Beginning last November, when the original plans were made, continuing through the spring as construction needs at the school arose, and through the entire three weeks of our program, I experienced nothing but concerned responses from all town and school personnel involved.

Mary Donohue at DCS and Selma Flieder at Old Town Hall, at the beginning stages of our plans, could not have been more supportive. I met first with Fred Jaeschke, then Jim Brightney of the municipal maintenance department to assure that our program could co-exist with construction plans at West Elementary. Careful consideration was given to the safety of children as well as minimal disruption of our program.

Once at the school, Ken Parker, supervising the construction work, was sensitive to our needs and communicated with me often. Charlie Friel, the principal, provided everything we needed and Frank Giles, the head custodian at West, was exceptional in his desire to assist us in any way possible.

I feel this letter is important to write because all too often people write to complain about town or school officials who do not meet their standards. Kaleidoscope has always held extremely high standards and I was proud to interact with all the aforementioned people as we brought our services to local children. If the quality of a town can be measured by the attitudes and efforts of its employees, then I would have to rate Andover "A" this year.

ject. "We haven't done any work yet. It's all computers. If school was like this it would be awesome," said Shawn Byrne, 14, as he and other eighth-graders eagerly typed up and edited the interviews for two hours each day. They wrote on Macintosh computers. The result was "computer gluttony." When the month was over, the 12 had interviewed nearly two dozen experts. With assistant Dora Castro, a senior at the Greater Lawrence Technical School and pre-electrical engineering student, we published a 20-page Career Journal. It included interviews and the students' own well-crafted career plans. "What's impressive was the clarity of their goals," said Charles Hayes of Florence Avenue, the eighth-grade math instructor.

"This isn't exactly work. It's exploring a field or a profession to see if we might consider it in the future. The reporters' project has helped out with English, typing, responsibility... knowing how to do a job and how to accomplish something that you've started," said Abraham Gutierrez, 13, who plans to become a judge.

PALS is like camp

It was really like camp in atmosphere. Students read in comfy easy chairs. Reading two books earned a PALS T-shirt.

Math equals involvement

Under the ingenious direction of Mr. Hayes, the eighth-graders measured the height of campus buildings using basic geometry. They created bar charts with data from their daily track-and-field contests. Using a Monopoly game and complex set of tax regulations, they financed real estate deals with requisite penalties and transaction fees. With the daily New York Times as a text they "purchased" several stocks and investigated the vagaries of the stock market. Shawn, who plans to study accounting, won the contest with a weekly profit of $6,000 on an investment of $10,000. Teaching assistant Frank Morris taught Shawn negative numbers using a submarine model.

Just plain fun

Learning happens painlessly in PALS. Tom Cone, PALS director and Phillips Academy biology teacher, agrees. "It's an alternate way to teach, small groups interacting with teachers in a cooperative experience. They build on each other."

And it works

It's been five summers for me as a teacher. I work with the eighth-grade students helping them get ready to leave the security of middle school. After a 17-year career in the public school classroom, I teach PALS because it works. In June PALS students won most of the awards at Leonard School commencement. Graduates regularly earn honor roll status at Greater Lawrence Technical School and at Lawrence High School. Youngsters bring up their marks two or even three letter grades. Many place at high-school reading level after two years. They learn to plan for successful careers. It works.

Word is getting around

Last year Julie Morse, a seventh-grade PALS teacher, and I wrote a booklet about the program. The recent Townsmen series "Andover for Teens" brought to light the need for teens to feel responsible and respected, and corresponding community responsibility for raising middle-school youngsters. A 'PALS-type' program could be duplicated in other communities. Generous and trained teens could mentor middle-school students in after-school programs. Similar intensive summer programs with teen assistants working with teachers could share the excitement of learning with small groups of capable youngsters in their own or neighboring communities. Mr. Cone reports educators have called him from Washington, D.C., and California to find out more about the program. It's just plain synergy. Alex Driscoll is an intern at the Townsmen.

for a job.

"He'll have a so-called leave status until he finds a new job," Mr. Sullivan said.

The Warrens were out of town this week and unavailable for comment on the settlement.

Mr. Warren, 58, also secured his retirement so that his benefits will accrue as if he were still employed by the school until age 65, an important part of the suit, according to his attorney.

"He's got his retirement security intact," Mr. Sullivan said.

The Warrens will be also allowed to stay in the PA-owned house they live in at 20 Hidden Field Road for another year, then will have the option of moving either to other "on-campus" housing, or to other housing of their own choosing.

"I think both sides are happy with it," Mr. Sullivan said of the settlement.

Mr. McNemar said he was happy it was over.

"The right of the academy to evaluate faculty has been acknowledged," he said. "The big thing is we are pleased that it is resolved. We will open school with the matter settled."

The Warrens filed suit last November after Mr. Warren, a teacher at the school for 29 years, was not rehired for this coming school year.

The suit claimed unlawful discriminatory practices on the part of the school and that Mr. Warren was not rehired for what he claimed was his not bowing to grade inflation at the school.

It claimed there had been a change in the value system at PA to the point that student contentment and grades had become a priority in assessing faculty. It also questioned other aspects of the school's faculty evaluation process.

The couple asked for his reinstatement and for the right to continue living in PA-owned housing as long as either one is a member of the faculty.

Ms. Warren, 59, has been a member of the faculty since 1982 and is currently director of the language laboratory at the school.

In a response to the suit last December, the school said Mr. Warren was let go because he failed to respond to criticism of his teaching skills, and denied that the couple had a right to remain in campus housing.

Andover wins Hoops for Hope championship

Andover won the Hoops for Hope Summer Basketball League Varsity Division championship last weekend, winning three games in two days to earn the Jacob Eyssi Memorial Trophy.

The local squad, which finished 10-4 overall this summer but was virtually unbeatable when at full strength, opened with a 62-40 quarterfinal round romp over Salem as Matt Gibson grabbed game-high scoring honors with 20 points.

The champs followed with an identical 22 point triumph over North Andover in semifinal round play at Sullivan Park as guard Kirk Stockwood, Gibson and sky-walker Eric Danis combined for 54 points.

Stockwood pumped through 23 points, the rugged Gibson added 17 and Danis flipped in 14 points.

Andover then dumped surprise finalist Haverhill 69-60 in the title clash, after the Hillies had upset Lowell 64-62 in the quarterfinals and ousted the Derry Astros 67-59 in the semifinal round.

Andover, which had a brief time to rest between games while Haverhill was forced to play back-to-back contests, was again led by its Big Three who pooled talents for 58 points.

Stockwood ignited the attack with 26, Gibson added 18 and Danis once again netted 14.

Tom Tanin also played well in the three games for Andover.

Kazi Rocker of Haverhill was game-high in the championship final with 31 points for Haverhill.

Last month Andover placed second in a 20-team field at the first Hoops for Hope Festival.

Hoops for Hoops Inc. enjoyed a very successful first campaign under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. James Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Scarpa.

The on-court results undoubtedly made Andover High varsity boys' basketball coach Dave Fazio very happy.

Fazio, who spent much of his youth in-and-around the Stadium projects adjacent to Sullivan Park, will have a varsity squad to be reckoned with again this winter.

Henry Wyatt Golf Classic raises more than $800

By Lisa Boudreau

The third annual Henry Wyatt Golf Classic, which was held Friday, Aug. 6, at the Rolling Green Par Three golf course, raised more than $800. This year 53 golfers played to raise money to help Mr. Wyatt, a former 23-year town employee.

Mr. Wyatt developed spinal problems in 1986, which forced his retirement. He now lives at Haverhill Manor Nursing Home in Haverhill. In the past tournament proceeds have helped Mr. Wyatt purchase a wheelchair.

Sponsors for the event were Steve Duffy, proprietor of the golf course and the Rolling Green Host Hotel. Food was provided by John's Village Deli and Continental Bakery.

Top finishers

Former Doherty Junior High teacher Don Anderson shot 29 on the par 29, nine-hole course to capture first place. Bill Owens shot 33 to finish second and Selectman Charlie Wesson placed third with a 36.

Special mention

First-time golfers Buzz Slapczynski, town manager, and Jean McMillan, a former Andover reporter for The Eagle Tribune, who now covers Lawrence for the paper, tied for the highest score with 62.

Best birdie

Candace Hall, personnel director for the town, also a first-time golfer, won the best birdie award. She didn't accomplish it the usual way - shooting a hole one under par - she did it the hard way.

On the fourth hole Ms. Hall's shot ricocheted off a tree and hit a sparrow. Observers said she was more shaken than the bird, which fluttered its wings and then flew off.

Top team

After handicaps were calculated the team of Bruce Hale, tournament organizer, Jean McMillan, Steve Colyer, town planning director, and Bill Krajcski, town assessor, was determined to be the top-finishing team.

Closest to the hole

Gregory Doyle drove his tee shot off the ninth hole to land five feet from the pin to win the closest-to-the-hole competition.

Best effort

Laura Hill, town planner, received an award for her efforts to retrieve a lost ball between the second and third holes. Ms. Hill waded into the marsh mud to get her ball, but then became stuck in the knee-high mud.

Chris Cronin and Mo Gray, water treatment plant workers, had to pull Ms. Hill out of the mire.

Enjoying the last dog days of summer

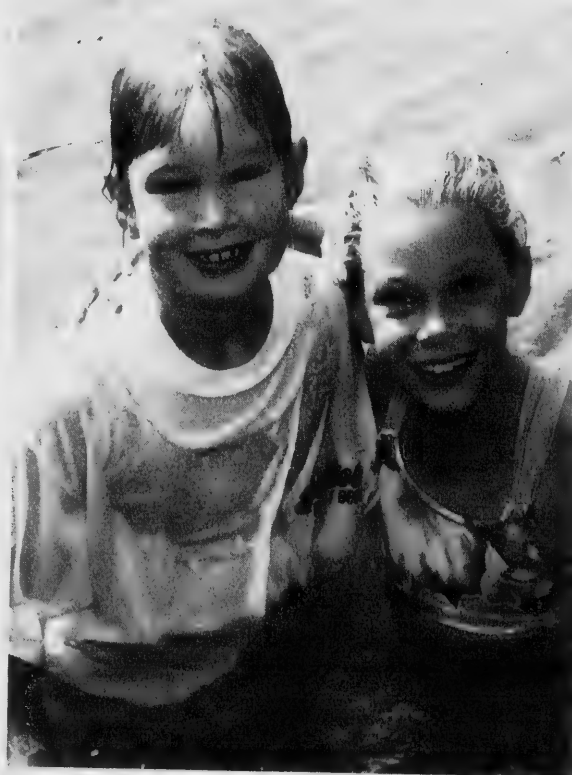

Townsmen photographer Lisa Adelsberger found lots of people of all ages at Poms Pond last Saturday, Aug. 14, enjoying the summer weather. Among them were members of Poms Pond's 10-Mile Swim Club. Started three years ago, swimmers who accumulate 10, 20, 30, 40 or 50 miles receive certificates from the Red Cross as part of its Stay Fit Swimming program and their name also goes on a plaque at the pond. Sigmund Pfeiffer has accomplished a total of 50 miles each year since the program started.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger

These people have spent a lot of time in the water this summer, becoming members of Poms Pond's 10-Mile Swim Club. The miles are accumulated over the summer. In the back row, from left, are: Stu McNeil, Walter Chernick and Jay Gottesfeld, each of whom has swam 10 miles. In the middle is Sigmund Pfeiffer, who has racked up 50 miles. In the water on the left of the dock is Matt Chapin and on the right is Amanda Schaake. The girl in the back on the left is unidentified. Other 10-mile swimmers who are not shown are Brendan Sullivan, Marge Haggerty, Donald Johnson and Janice Chernicki.

Kristen Kokinos, right, spent some time Saturday at Poms Pond with her cousin from Illinois, Jennifer Barry.

Jake Silverman, Sam Silverman, Kurt Silverman, Alex Lau and Miles Silverman all took part in a sandcastle-building contest, which took place at Poms Pond last Saturday.

Locals participate in Hockey Night in Boston

Several Andover High hockey players and Andover residents recently participated in the Hockey Night in Boston mini-tryout tournament, which preceded the 19th annual HNIB Summer Showcase of Stars event currently in progress at Merrimack College.

Skating in the Sophomore Division were Andover High 10th-graders Chris Cullen, Jeff Hesenius, Jeff Mazza and Ed Seero.

Cullen, Seero and Mazza are forwards and Hesenius is a defenseman.

Left wing Cullen last year scored a freshman school record 22 goals and 14 assists for 36 points, and he also competed for the Northeast Scholastic team in the Bay State Games. Cullen had one goal and one assist in four Bay State contests as Northeast posted a 1-3 record, losing two games by one goal margins.

Jeff Hesenius skated a regular shift on the blue line for Andover High last winter and passed out nine assists, while Seero finished with four assists and Mazza had one goal and one assist for the 12-6 3 tournament-qualifying Golden Warriors.

Cullen and Hesenius were chosen as Hockey Night in Boston All-Stars after the five-game round-robin tourney, although they were not selected to compete in the Summer Showcase of Stars whose diversified Sophomore team includes players from Ohio, Michigan, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Other Andover High players who participated in the upperclass HNIB tryout tournament were junior forwards Scott Munroe, Scott Sullivan, Dana DiFiore and junior goaltender Jason Veilleux.

Sullivan was Andover High's second leading goalscorer and third high pointman last year with 12 goals and 18 assists for 30 points. Munroe and DiFiore scored four goals each.

Another Andover resident who skated in the Sophomore All-Star mini-tourney was Pingree School center iceman Chris Halecki, whose older brother, Scott, was a standout hockey and baseball player at the private school before graduating last year.

Pictured is the Andover Blue baseball team of the Suburban Pony League, which recently completed a 20-5 season including a trip to the championship playoffs. The team, which consists of 13- to 15-year-old players, included: Bottom row, from left: Andy Torrisi, Rob Oppenheim, Scott Peterson, Jason Monarca, John Hogan. Middle row: Coach Jim Oppenheim, Jack Glazebrook, Peter Kaltsunas, Brian Tisbert, Hugh Quattlebaum, Ryan Daniels, Ethan Murphy, Coach Steve Tisbert. Back row: Andy Marshall, Ryan Games, Ted Witman, George Secchiarioli, Chris Kearn, Joe Sciolia. Absent when the photo was taken was Manager Joe Iarrobino.

Methuen frustrates Andover

By Rick Harrison

It was déjà vu for Andover Blue.

For the second straight summer the Methuen Police frustrated the locals in their battle for supremacy of the Suburban Pony League, this time sweeping a best-of-3 championship series last week.

Methuen squeezed out a 6-5 victory in the opening game, despite being out-hit 9-4, and Blue left the tying and go-ahead runs at second and third base in the top of the seventh.

The Police then clinched their third league title in four years with an equally-tough triumph in the second game, breaking a 2-2 tie with five runs in the top of the seventh before weathering a spirited Blue rally in the bottom of the inning to escape with a 7-4 victory at Andover High.

Last year Methuen was extended to three games before prevailing, edging Blue 1-0 in the deciding contest, and three years ago Methuen nipped Andover Gold 3-2 and 10-9 in a best-of-3 sweep for its first championship.

The double dip left Blue, which lost back-to-back games for the first time since last year's finals, with a 20-5 overall record this season. Four of the five losses were to Methuen.

The team, coached by Steve Tisbert, Joe Iar-robin and Jim Oppenheim, is also 58-11 over the past three years.

Methuen, which edged Blue by one point for the regular season North Division crown, went through the playoffs undefeated (4-0) and completed the year at 21-1-1 overall.

Methuen 7 Andover Blue 4

George Secchiaroli and Methuen's Jason Royston hooked up in a fine pitcher's duel for six innings.

Secchiaroli, a big righthander, limited The Police to three singles and one earned run until the fateful seventh. He walked 10 and struck out four.

Royston, a slender righty with a sidearm delivery and a wide assortment of off-speed pitches, limited Blue to six singles for the first six frames while walking four, whiffing two and hitting three batters.

Both pitchers tired and were knocked from the box in the seventh, Secchiaroli replaced by Hugh Quattlebaum after throwing 128 pitches and Royston relieved by Sid Cox with no one out in the seventh after tossing 89 pitches.

"George pitched an excellent game but the walks did hurt," said Coach Tisbert. "Royston gave us trouble because he throws a lot of junk, comes from the side and is sneaky fast. Just when our kids thought their timing was down he'd slip a quick one past them."

Both teams threatened in every inning, except Blue in the bottom of the first when Royston set them down 1-2-3.

There were 19 runners left on base in the game, nine by Methuen and 10 by Blue. Andover left the bases loaded in both the sixth and seventh innings.

In the Methuen first Royston slapped a leadoff single and Al Tisbert drew a one-out walk. Both advanced on a passed ball before Secchiaroli worked free with a popout to first baseman Joe Sciolia and a strikeout.

In the Methuen second a one-out walk and followup single by Cox put two runners aboard again, but Kevin O'Real lined out to third baseman Chris Kearn before Secchiaroli registered another key strikeout.

Blue grabbed a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the second when Secchiaroli drew a leadoff walk, advanced to third on consecutive infield groundouts by Ted Witman and Kearn, and scored when Andy Marshall ripped a first-pitch single to left.

Ryan Games and Sciolia followed with two-out singles, Marshall scoring on Sciolia's hit before left fielder Cox nailed the runner at third base to end the inning.

Methuen retaliated with a run in the third as Mark Ruggiero walked, took second on a wild pitch and scored when Chris Cultrera's infield grounder was booted.

Dan BiBella then walked before Secchiaroli bore down to retire the side.

Jack Glazebrook was hit by a pitch and thrown out stealing in the Blue third, while Kearn drew a two-out walk in the fourth and was stranded.

Methuen tied it 2-2 in the fifth frame without a hit as Ruggiero walked, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and crossed on a passed ball.

In the Andover fifth Hugh Quattlebaum slapped a two-out single and Glazebrook again was hit by a pitch.

But Royston, who saved the series opener for Ruggiero by retiring the only batter he faced in the seventh on a fly ball, worked out of this jam by getting the dangerous Brian Tisbert on a grounder to slick-fielding third baseman Cultrera.

Blue squandered a golden opportunity in the sixth, leaving three aboard after Secchiaroli was hit by a pitch, Kearn singled and Marshall singled.

With the bases loaded and one out, a suicide squeeze attempt went awry when the pitch was foul-tipped. That batter then popped out to Ruggiero at short, as did the next batter with Ruggiero making the catch in shallow right field.

Methuen's five-run seventh opened with consecutive bunt singles by Ruggiero and Tisbert, the first a surprise play and the second a sacrifice that became more when the Blue defense mixed up on coverage and left first base unattended.

Cultrera was intentionally walked to load the bases, but the sound strategy backfired when DiBella slugged a three-run triple that barely eluded Ryan Games in right center field.

"Ryan said when he came in he just missed catching the ball, and it looked like he was only two or three inches away from making a great play," said Coach Tisbert.

'We had two guys on base with two outs in the seventh and Chris Kearn at the plate. He already had three hits in the game, including two doubles, and he hit the ball hard again. Unfortunately it hung up in the air long enough for the left fielder to catch it in left center, otherwise we would have taken the lead.'

Coach Steve Tisbert

Secchiaroli was lifted after issuing two more walks, and Kevin O'Real greeted relief pitcher Quattlebaum with a long two-run triple over right fielder Jack Glazebrook's head.

O'Real's triple capped the uprising and proved to be a vital insurance stroke when Blue charged back in the bottom of the seventh.

Andover refused to go quietly, making it interesting and causing Methuen coach (and former Andover High varsity assistant) Bill Blood some anxious moments by scoring two runs without the benefit of a hit.

Leadoff batter Hugh Quattlebaum and Glazebrook walked against Royston, and reliever Cox loaded the bases by hitting Brian Tisbert in the back.

Secchiaroli walked on four pitches to force home Quattlebaum, and Ted Witman's sacrifice fly to center made it 7-4.

The next batter fanned for the second out, Methuen catcher Al Tisbert holding on to a third-strike foul tip, but then Cox walked Andy Marshall on a 3-1 pitch to load the bases again.

With the tying run at first base and the game-winner at the plate, Cox closed it out himself by gloving a comebacker to the mound and flipping to first baseman O'Real.

Marshall finished with two hits for Blue, while Ruggiero was 2-for-3 and scored three runs for Methuen.

The rival third basemen were defensive standouts, Chris Kearn with three putouts and two assists for Andover while Methuen's Chris Cultrera had two putouts and five assists.

"If I was going to pick a playoff MVP for Methuen it would have been Cultrera," said Coach Tisbert. "He had three or four hits and made all the plays in the field."

Methuen 6 Andover Blue 5

Blue hit Police ace Mark Ruggiero, who pitched for the Methuen High varsity last spring, hard in the series opener at Pelham Street field.

For the second time this year Ruggiero was no mystery, as Blue banged out six extra base hits (five doubles, one triple).

"The problem was we hit them all back-to-back in bunches," said Coach Tisbert. "We needed one or two at other key times with two or three guys on base."

Ruggiero went 6.2 innings and carried a seemingly-comfortable 6-2 lead into the seventh, but Blue rallied for three runs and came within one gap shot of winning the game.

"We had two guys on base with two outs in the seventh and Chris Kearn at the plate," said Tisbert. "He already had three hits in the game, including two doubles, and he hit the ball hard again. Unfortunately it hung up in the air long enough for the left fielder to catch it in left center, otherwise we would have taken the lead."

Ruggiero exited after yielding nine hits, walking four and fanning four. Sid Cox pitched to two batters and couldn't get the third out, but then Jason Royston retired Kearn to end it.

Kearn went the distance on the hill for Blue, and he deserved a better fate after surrendering just four hits. He struck out four, walked five and two of the champs' runs were unearned.

Methuen took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first, but Andover moved ahead 2-1 in the fourth when Brian Tisbert tripled, George Secchiaroli ripped an RBI double and Kearn laced a run-scoring single.

Kevin O'Real's two-run single helped The Police regain the lead, 4-2, with a three-run bottom of the fourth.

Methuen added what proved to be the winning runs in the sixth, both unearned after two walks, a sacrifice bunt and a Blue error.

Pete Kaltsunas and Jack Glazebrook (RBI) belted consecutive doubles to open the seventh for never-say-die Blue.

Hugh Quattlebaum kept the rally going with an RBI single, stole second and scored on an error to make it 6-5 as Ruggiero was replaced by Cox.

Brian Tisbert walked, stole his 39th and 40th bases of the season, and Ted Witman walked and stole second to put runners in scoring position with two down.

Royston entered and finally got the third out.

Defensive standouts were second baseman Quattlebaum, catcher Witman who threw out two would-be Methuen basestealers, and first baseman Secchiaroli who gunned down a Methuen runner at the plate.

Andover soccer players complete season

Andover soccer players Jen Schapira, Sue Cookson and Liz Salvia recently completed a successful six-week summer season playing in the MYSA District Select Program. The team of girls from Middlesex and Essex counties had a 11-3-2 record in statewide Under-15 play.

Salvia, playing stopper and halfback, and Cookson, at stopper and sweeper, anchored a solid defense that allowed only nine goals in 16 games. Schapira, playing halfback and forward, contributed two goals and two assists. Salvia added two goals and two assists while Cookson netted three goals and two assists.

The girls will be sophomores at Andover High School.

Andover Blue 23 - Wakefield 19

Julie Litzenger had two home runs and a hard-hit single for six RBIs and Lynn Mazza hit a home run and a single for four RBIs. Shannon Breen's triple brought in three runners. Singles were hit by Courtney Familetti (three), Jenny Powers, Viki Pierce, Charlotte Muller, and Kim McKew (two each), Shannon Breen, Noelle Blank, Julie Viola, Michelle Carpentier and Lacy Eggert (one each).

A third inning rally by Wakefield was checked by Courtney Familetti's play to first baseman Shannon Breen for the first and second out. Kaitlin Dargan made a key catch of a hard-hit ball with two runners on base to close the inning. In the fourth inning Wakefield again rallied to tie Andover. Catcher Viki Pierce, on a throw from Lynn Mazza, made the out at home for the third out. Julie Litzenger was strong on first base handling all three outs in the fifth inning. Beth

Masters Self Defense Center in North Reading is offering a back-to-school special of 50% off all lessons offered this fall. All classes are taught by accredited black belt instructors. Group and private lessons are available. Students range in age from 4 to 80 and include men, women and children, as well as those with special requirements.

The Shaolin Kempo-Karate method is used at Masters Self Defense Centers. It promotes self-defense, confidence, concentration, self-discipline, personal growth, physical conditioning, stress control, motivation, nutritional guidance and weight control.

The Martial Arts have intrigued and fascinated people for centuries. First introduced to China in the sixth century, its origins are found deep within the cultures of the Far East. The words Chuan-Fa or Kung-Fa are used to describe the self-defense or fighting application of this ancient art. In time, the system of breathing, meditating and aerobic exercise moved on to different lands where it was constantly refined and upgraded by the predominant Masters of the time. The words Shaolin Kempo are used to describe this hybrid fighting system.

Karate is a self-defense skill to be used only as needed. Classes observe

"no contact rules." Chief instructor Bruce Gonsalves is a dedicated teacher and states that safety is the number-one rule.

This full-time studio has a warm and friendly atmosphere. Prospective customers are welcome to come in to observe a class or have a free lesson. Bruce encourages calls and will be happy to answer any questions.

Masters Self Defense Centers is located at 246 Main St. (Route 28), North Reading, just beyond Star Market. Adequate parking is available in both front and rear of the studio. Phone: (508) 664-0256.

Sue Luby's BodySense

Sue Luby, internationally known author, lecturer, television producer and yoga instructor has returned to Andover where her 30-year career began, to open a new studio where she is teaching her four-point hazard-free fitness program, BodySense.

The BodySense System was developed to allow the individual to understand his/her own unique body alignment and to learn how to correct the unhealthy patterns which have caused damage and stress to the body. Once these weaknesses have been identified, they can be corrected "on the spot" in class, allowing immediate results and relief. Each individual works to correct the body alignment at his own pace and level of endurance. BodySense works to create flexibility, strength and stamina all at one time. Once the body alignment corrections have been made, the individual learns how to maintain that natural alignment during all activities with the use of relaxation and/or hypnotherapy for a total mind/body balance.

Personal empowerment is the goal of BodySense, power to control the body and to make choices about how to use it and power to overcome pain and injuries that have taken control from you. Sue has worked with individuals suffering from scoliosis, asthma, bad knees and backs, multiple sclerosis and stroke patients. Sue can also help with posture problems, sleeping habits and sitting habits both at work and in the car to reduce body stress and damage. Sue is a certified hypnother-apist and uses this technique to augment BodySense by helping the body remember and use the training.

Sue Luby has acted as a consultant in industry to teach people at their work stations how to use the body and align themselves for comfort. She helped develop and was featured on the PBS health series

"Bodywatch" and is the author of three books, including "BodySense: Hazard-free Fitness Program for Men & Women."

BodySense is a simple, no-gimmicks fitness conditioning program designed for your unique body to maximize your every day performance and enjoyment. BodySense classes will begin the week of Sept. 7 and will run for 12 weeks. Each class is one and one-half hours long with a 15-minute relaxation period at the end.
Classes can be taken once or twice a week.
Private sessions of BodySense or hypnotherapy are also available. Call now to reserve your space.

Nicaraguan visitor works for mothers of war victims

By Allyson Bates

This interview was conducted in Spanish by Townsman intern Allyson Bates.

After three weeks of visiting in the United States, María Dolores Vado returned to Nicaragua to continue her program for mothers of war victims.

During her stay in the U.S., Señora Vado stayed with the Stott family, 4 Robandy Road, and spoke to many organizations about Proyecto: Madres de Heroes y Matires.

The program, organized by Sra. Vado after her son died in the war 13 years ago, helps mothers maintain the memory of their sons and provide employment for their families.

Sra. Vado explained that everyone participates in the project either socially or actively.

An abandoned Red Cross building, home of the San Marcos project, has a gallery of photos always open to the public, to preserve the memory of their sons. Also located in this building are a coffee shop operated by Las Madres, a kitchen, clinic, a sewing machine, and a sleeping area for people who visit El Proyecto.

Money earned by the moth-

ers is used to subsidize medication, water and the necessities needed to expand the project.

Low-cost bread is sold to the families of the victims and pan rico, bread made with more expensive ingredients, is sold to the public to earn money for the group. Sra. Vado said the women who sell the bread may receive either a percentage of money above the cost of the bread, or get loaves of bread.

Clothing, bed coverings and hankchiefs with needlepoint are sewn by mothers to sell to the community. Las Madres tries to make things that people cannot afford to buy, explained Sra. Vado. They make products at a low cost to sell within the community.

The group from San Marcos of approximately 100 mothers and mothers from all over the country protested against the government to receive some sort of aid or compensation for their loss. When the Chamorro government took power in Nicaragua, state health services, subsidized medicine and the $15 per month pension given to the mothers of war victims were abolished. Mothers occupied the plaza in front of the government buildings for around 30 days, recalled Sra. Vado. They experienced much police brutality and gained few results, she said.

The community of San Marcos is very accepting of El Proyecto, Sra. Vado explained, but the government is indifferent and doesn't bother to help or acknowledge these families.

Similar groups in the San Marcos area cater to other needs of the community as a result of the war. National groups help victims who suffer from a loss of sight and limbs, or victims with psychological problems. Recently part of a veterans' group built bicycles as part of a project in Managua.

Despite the obstacles that Las Madres de Heroes y Matires has faced, Sra. Vado considers her project a pilot project that is unique and self initiated. It should be used as an example. Her message to everyone is people must help assist the social classes below them and it is necessary to help all people. Sra. Vado believes that everyone in Latin America has a responsibility to do something for society. Emphasis should be on improvement strategies for the lower class. The world will be a better place when everyone is more sensible, she said.

Sra. Vado has three other children. Marylu, 28 years old, is a psychology major who volunteers her services twice a week to the clinic. Her sons, Reyenerio, 26 years old, and Alex, 16 years old, also work on a voluntary basis at El Proyecto.

Sandra Comstock, 23-year-old daughter of Fred and Susan Stott, will spend one to two years in Nicaragua working on an internship. As a good friend of Sra. Vado's son, Ms. Comstock will live with the Vado family for a while.

Andover Police now have child car-seat loaner program

Summer — the peak season for automobile travel — is the perfect time to reinforce the importance of the correct use of child car seats and safety belts.

With this in mind, Bernie Levesque, manager of Midas Muffler in Salem, N.H., and Lt. Phillip E. Froburg of the Andover Police Department have joined forces to initiate a car-seat loaner program as part of Project Safe Baby, an ongoing effort to decrease the number of tragic automobile accidents involving children. The donation is the first of its kind in the Merrimack Valley.

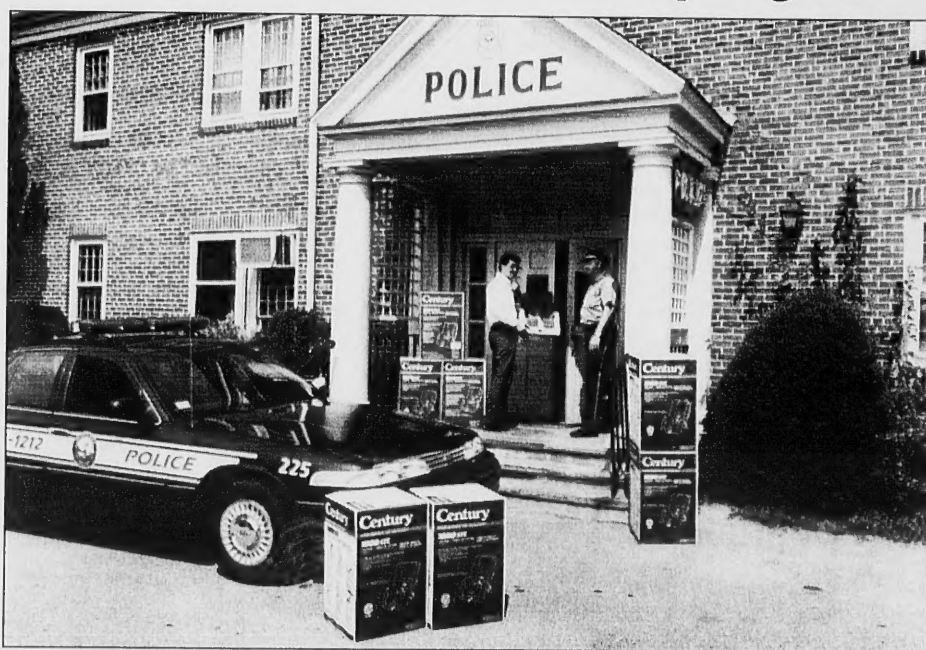

"As police officers, we have a duty to educate and inform the public about safety issues and to help the people of Andover to stay safe," said Lt. Froburg. "Midas has helped us to do that through its donation. This is a particularly important time because of the large traffic volume during the summer."

The Century STE 1000 convertible car seats, donated by Midas Muffler & Brake Shops and Project Safe Baby, will be made available to non-residents who are staying with Andover residents on a first-come, first-served basis. Seats may be loaned for a two-week period, after which they may be reissued if needed, but only for a total of one month.

"We are very proud to be working with the Andover Police Department on this project," said Mr. Levesque. "The loaner program exemplifies all of the goals of Project Safe Baby."

Project Safe Baby, a public affairs program sponsored by Midas, aims to promote and encourage the correct use of car seats.

Bernie Levesque, manager of Midas Muffler and Brake Shop, Salem, N.H., presents Lt. Phillip Froburg of the Andover Police Department with 10 Century STE 1000 convertible car seats. The donation will be used to initiate the town's car-seat loaner program as part of Midas' Project Safe Baby campaign, which promotes and encourages the correct use of child safety seats.

Car-seat loan policy

The car seats have been made available from Midas Muffler and Brake Shop of Salem, N.H., and Project Safe Baby.

① Seats will be made available to non-residents who are staying with a resident of Andover, on a first-come basis.

② The non-resident must show their driver's license with current home address.

③ The non-resident must fill out the log book with their home address and phone number, as well as the name and address of their Andover hosts.

④ Seats may be loaned for only a two-week period; they may be reissued if still needed, not to exceed one month.

⑤ Seats must be returned in a clean condition.

⑥ Seats that are not returned will be billed at $60 to the person who signed it out.

Midas Muffler & Brake Shops offer the Century STE 1000 convertible car seat to consumers at the wholesale cost of $42. Consumers who purchase their car seats at Midas shops can return the seats after they're no longer needed and receive a full credit toward any Midas service.

Since the program's launch in May 1992, Midas Muffler & Brake Shops of Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire have sold more than 2,500 car seats and donated more than 500 additional seats to local hospitals and loaner programs. In addition, Project Safe Baby has initiated a Buckle-Up Hotline, which has received more than 2,700 calls to date.

Through the hotline, anyone who observes a young child riding unrestrained in a moving vehicle can call 1-800-443-SAFE to give the license plate and location of that car. The Greater Boston SAFE KIDS Coalition and the Registry of Motor Vehicles then sends the vehicle's owner a friendly reminder about the Child Passenger Safety Law and information on how to get low-cost on loaner car seats.

Looking for some creative baby-shower gift ideas?

Showering a mother-to-be (or a father-to-be) with gifts can be done in creative ways these days, thanks to coordinated infant and juvenile products featuring popular characters, such as Disney's Baby Mickey and Minnie or Bambi and woodland friends. Here are some suggestions for great gift ideas you can adapt to suit your needs and budget:

- Create a splash with a gift focused on bath time. Buy an infant tub and fill it to the rim with Baby Mickey bath towels, mitts, a comb-and-brush set and squeeze toys. Include a box of diapers and bath-time toiletries.

- Mealtime can be funtime when you choose from a variety of dinnerware, silverware, cups, bottles and suction-cup toys. Don't forget bibs or playwear with attachable bibs. Add boxes of cereal or cans of formula to make it complete. Place the items in a box wrapped in gift wrap and trim it with streamers.

- Make playtime fun with a basket full of Bambi toys. For instance, start with a few basic rattles, plush- and squeeze toys for the newborn. Add one or two interactive toys or books and tapes for when the child is older.

- Help the new parents make the home safe and sound for the baby. Fill a basket with Disney Babies night-lights, nursery monitors and a light switchplate. Toss in some electrical outlet covers and cabinet locks to make it complete.

- Any active parent would appreciate a gift that could help him or her easily pick up and go. Stuff a Disney Babies diaper bag with diapers, hats, a blanket, a jacket or sweater, toiletries and Activities-to-Go toys.

- Take a wardrobe storage bin or box and fill it to the brim with apparel the new parents will need for the baby - playwear and sleepwear to swimwear.

You can even make a theme for the baby shower with coordinated party goods, decorations and gift wrap.

By following these hints, you may find that shopping for a baby shower seems more like child's play.

Y has after-school child care

The Andover/North Andover YMCA is accepting registration for limited openings in its child-care programs for the 1993-'94 school year. The program is designed to help children in grades K-6 to develop socially and learn new skills. Positive self-image and self-esteem are developed through personal interactions, crafts, free play, cooking, gym games and homework time.

There are still openings at the Faith Lutheran Church site at 360 S. Main St. The program meets Monday through Friday from the time school gets out until 6 p.m. YMCA transportation will bring children to the child-care site. For more information or to register, call Youth Program Director Cathy Dawson at 685-3541.

The YMCA's Kids Unlimited vacation club has been busy at Faith Lutheran Church this summer. They recently took a trip to the Dragon's Lair for a barbecue and the Discovery Museum in Acton. The staff and kids celebrated St. Patrick's Day, Easter, Christmas and Halloween the week of Aug. 2. The week of Aug. 9 was "Wacky Wild YMCA Week," featuring water games, backwards day, a lip sync and talent show, and a field trip for miniature golf and ice cream.

There are openings for 6- to 12-year-olds for the Aug. 30-Sept. 3 session.

Cuddle Care meets standards

Cuddle Care, located at 511 S. Main St., is among one of the first day-care programs in the United States to be accredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs (NAEYC). The academy recognizes early childhood programs that meet national standards of quality.

Cuddle Care Day Care Center serves 110 children from the ages of 2 months to 6 years.

The academy's standards were developed over a three-year period with input from approximately 200 educators and administrators from around the county. It was launched in 1985 by NAEYC, reportedly the nation's oldest and largest early childhood association in the country.

Cuddle Care met strict criteria concerning activities developmentally appropriate for infants through kindergarten. Those criteria included qualified staff, ratio of children-to-staff, health- and safety standards, parental involvement and a self-study by the staff.

The accreditation process included an on-site study and review by a three-member national commission.
